

Learning how to help your children during the transition of divorce and parental separation is extremely important. A LIVE classroom experience is the MOST EFFECTIVE way to receive this vital education. However, sometimes there are unique circumstances (e.g., Military Service; Incarceration; Severe Disability) which prohibit a parent from attending a class. The Self Learning System is offered to help people in one of these situations.

The 4-step remote learning system is based on the TransParenting® seminar used by court systems around the country. While not ideal, the Self Learning System gives people who would otherwise not receive it, an opportunity to understand all of the topics covered during a divorce education class.

In the Self-Learning System, parents are asked to complete online work at www.uptoparents.org, read the TransParenting® Parent Handbook and complete a detailed test to ensure a good understanding of concepts covered. A certificate is only issued to those who complete the work at www.uptoparents.org and pass the TransParenting® test with an 80% rate of accuracy.

Self-Learning System for Divorcing Parents

Step #1
